

Pierre Soyer de Bosmelet married to Geneviève Bérard in 1929. His children, Béatrice, Hélène and Robert agreed that Geneviève was Pierre's true love. I am told that theirs was a Romeo and Juliet romance. Although I do not have documentation for Geneviève she may have been three years younger than Pierre, so born in 1909, and died after 1982. Apparently Pierre wanted to get back together with Geneviève when he returned from Africa in 1960.

Robert, my uncle, wrote this about Geneviève Bérard:

"Geneviève remained deeply in love with Pierre all her life. The first thing she would always ask me on the few occasions I met her was "comment va Pierre?" ("How is Pierre doing?")